

SCIENCE EDUCATION INTERNATIONAL

ISSN 1450-104X

Science Education International is the quarterly journal of the International Council of Associations for Science Education (ICASE). ICASE was established in 1973 to extend and improve education in science for all children and youth by assisting member associations throughout the world. This journal provides a means for associations, institutions, centres, foundations, companies, and individuals concerned with science education to share perspectives, concerns, ideas, and information that will foster cooperative efforts to improve science education, and which will serve as a chronicle of the advancement of science education throughout the world.

Science Education International, ISSN 1450-104X, offers a worldwide balance between a primary, secondary, and a tertiary level focus. All articles are peer reviewed and should be relevant to an international readership. The articles appearing in this journal are indexed and abstracted in COPERNICUS INDEX and ERIC.

ECRICE 2010 and DIDSCI 2010

Ladies and Gentleman,

In July 2010 the Pedagogical University of Kraków organizes the 10th European Conference on Research In Chemistry Education (ECRICE) and 4th International Conference Research in Didactics of the Sciences (DidSci), thus we kindly invite all academicians, doctoral students, science teachers, and researchers to take part in the events.

As a long tradition, ECRICE is organized under the auspices of EuCheMS (formerly FECS), in relation to the activity of the Division of Chemical Education. This meeting follows successful conferences held in Istanbul (2008), Budapest (2006), Ljubljana (2004), Aveiro (2001) etc.

The Conferences are the opportunity exchange experiences on research in chemical education (ECRICE) and research & practice in natural science education (DidSci) carried out at every education level - from primary school up to graduate studies. The aim of the conferences is to familiarize the scientific environment with the most recent achievements in the various scientific centers.

The program will feature a wide variety of plenary, invited and contributed lectures, as well as poster sessions. Abstracts of oral contributions and posters will be peer reviewed. The language of ECRICE will be English whereas the language of DidSci conference will be English, Polish, Czech, Slovak and Russian.

It will also be an opportunity for participants to visit Krakow, famous for its culture heritage and friendly atmosphere.

The organizing committee of the 10th ECRICE & 4th DidSci cordially invite you to attend and participate in those meaningful conferences.

We look forward to seeing you in Kraków.
